

Decisions: the recommendation system

Depending on your workflow needs, your journal can use very specific labels for decisions. Some decisions will be related to scientific corrections, others may be related to copyediting or language corrections. In Nestor those labels are called "recommendations". Here are a few common examples:

Acceptance group	Revision group	Rejection group
• Provisory acceptance • Acceptance	• Minor revision • Major revision • English revision • Proofreading revision • etc.	• Direct rejection • Rejection after refereeing • Rejection for plagiarism • Rejection for serial publication • etc.

Those labels are freely configurable here:

NEW RECOMMENDATION

Recommendation label

This label will be displayed:

- in the referees' and editors' report form
- when editors trigger the proposition or decision event

User event group

You must select a group (accept/revise/reject).
The selected group will determine the mail templates available below.

Allow access to editor profiles

This menu defines which editor profiles have access to this recommendation.
For example, you can restrict scientific recommendations to scientific editors, and copyediting recommendations to copyediting editors. Use ctrl to select multiple profiles.

Allow access to referees ☒

This option defines if referees have access to this recommendation.

Major English revision

REVISION_REQUEST / PROPOSE_REVISION_REQUEST
