3.20 - Article flags

18 March 2022

- Custom fields and flags:
    - custom fields are now displayable in articles lists
    - select fields (both standard and custom) can now trigger flags on article lists and article pages

These two features are very useful to identify specific workflows / critical articles

- Mail history: users may now mask automatic mails in mail history.

We realised mail history could get very crowded when several co-authors/editors are involved in an article.
Masking automatic mails to show only "human" messages helps editors to identify important messages in the article history.

- Referee invitations:
    - when inviting a referee, a warning is displayed to the editor if the referee is currently working on another paper
    - referee activity page: information is now more relevant
