4.80 - Submission instructions, long answers, referee similarity check

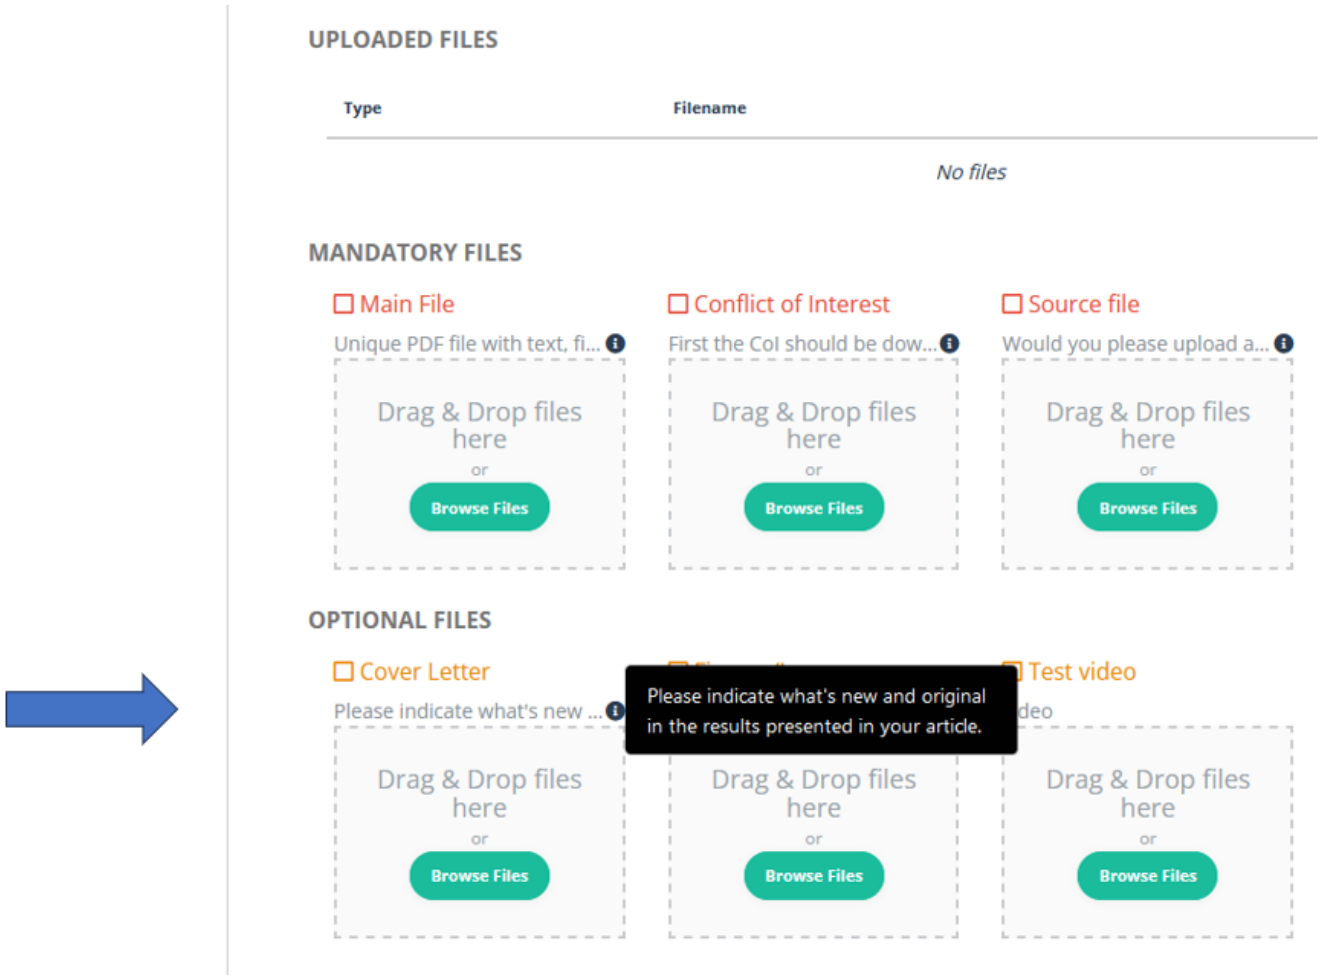

12 October 2023

Improvement on submission instructions

The journal configuration already allows to provide a thorough description of your file types and custom fields:

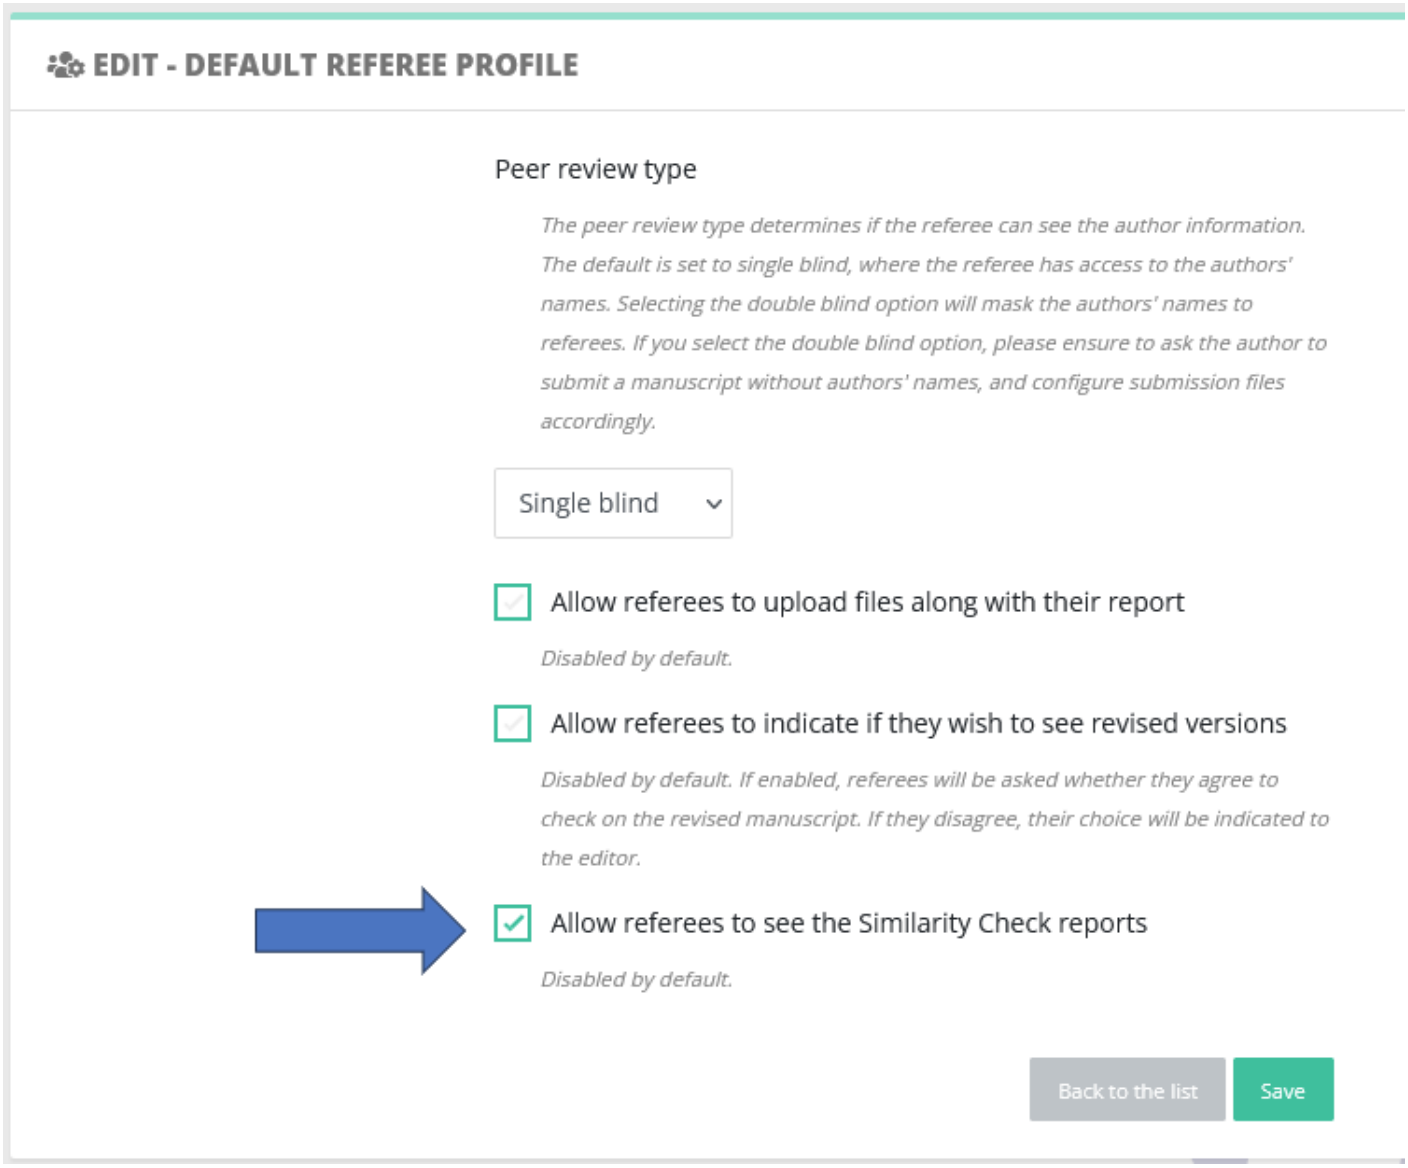

This information is now displayed properly to the authors. When the description is too long, it will be inserted in a tool tip like so:

Similarity check for the referees

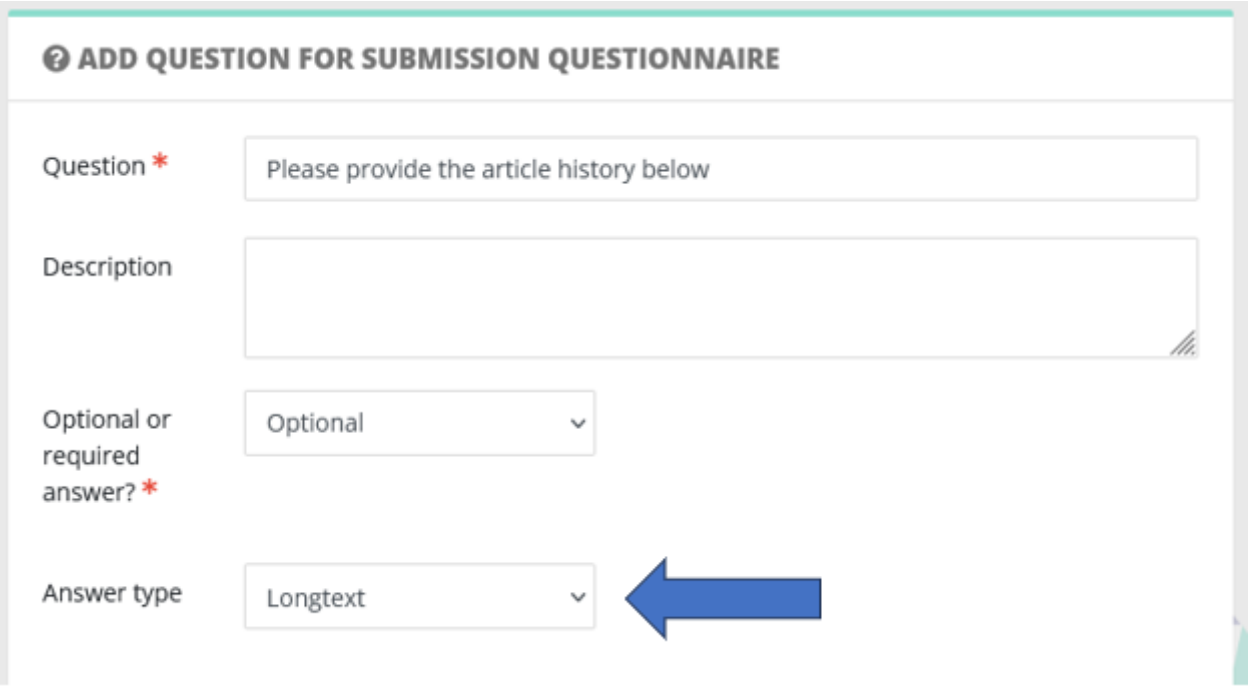

Referees may now have access to Similarity Check results.
To do so:

- Similarity check must have been triggered on some files
- The referee profile must have this new right activated:

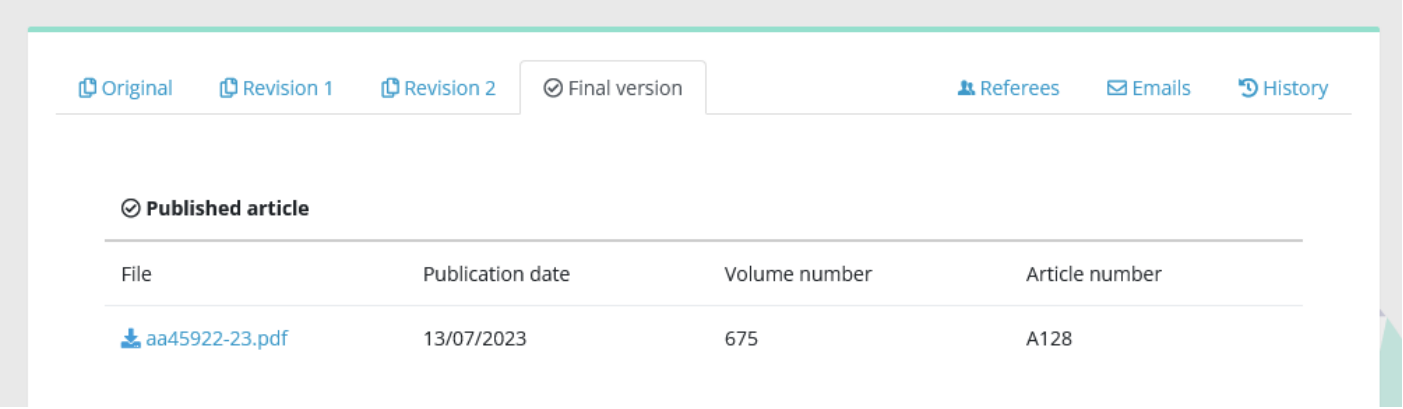

Small questions? Long answers!

At long last, answers to author/referee questionnaires may now be configured as long text:

Improved view on published articles

Some authors reported some confusion between the proof/publication thumbnails. This has been clarified in the author interface: when an article is published and Nestor receives the publication file, the authors have access to a distinct thumbnail, different from the proofs.
