

5.90 LaTeX diff, workflow updates, automatic mail recipients

27 August 2024

LaTeX diff

This feature is available for journals using the LaTeX compilation feature. Using this, Nestor compares two LaTeX source files and generates a comparison PDF. This is useful to track changes from one version to another.

Even more workflow updates

Following this release, all referee events have been identified as update triggers for the 'last action date'. This will help editors to distinguish 'active articles' (with a recent action date) from 'delayed' articles.

Automatic mails recipients

The following events can now trigger a notification to a specific profile, such as editorial assistants:

- receipt of referee report
- decline of referee invitation
- acceptance of referee invitation

This is not activated by default and must be configured in templates settings.

Last version article files

On published articles, article files and metadata of the accepted version will always be displayed.
