6.50 - new user exports, referee invitation, stop production

14 May 2025

Authors and editors exports

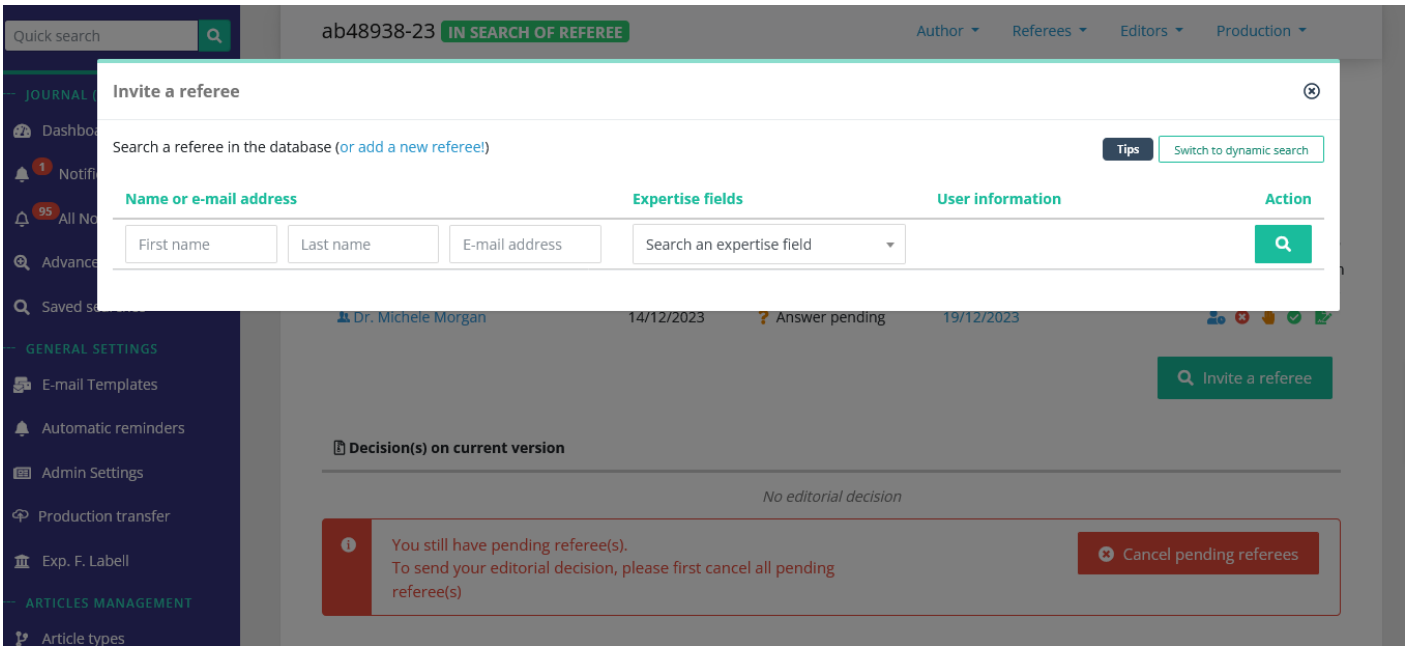

Following the referees' activity last year, we release two new data exports:
- one concerning the author/co-author status on each article,
- the other concerning editors

These exports are available on any given list of articles. For each user, they include the default institute and contact information. For editors, we also include the assignement and first decision dates, as well as their responsibility tags. This allows for easier tracking of the editorial board activity.

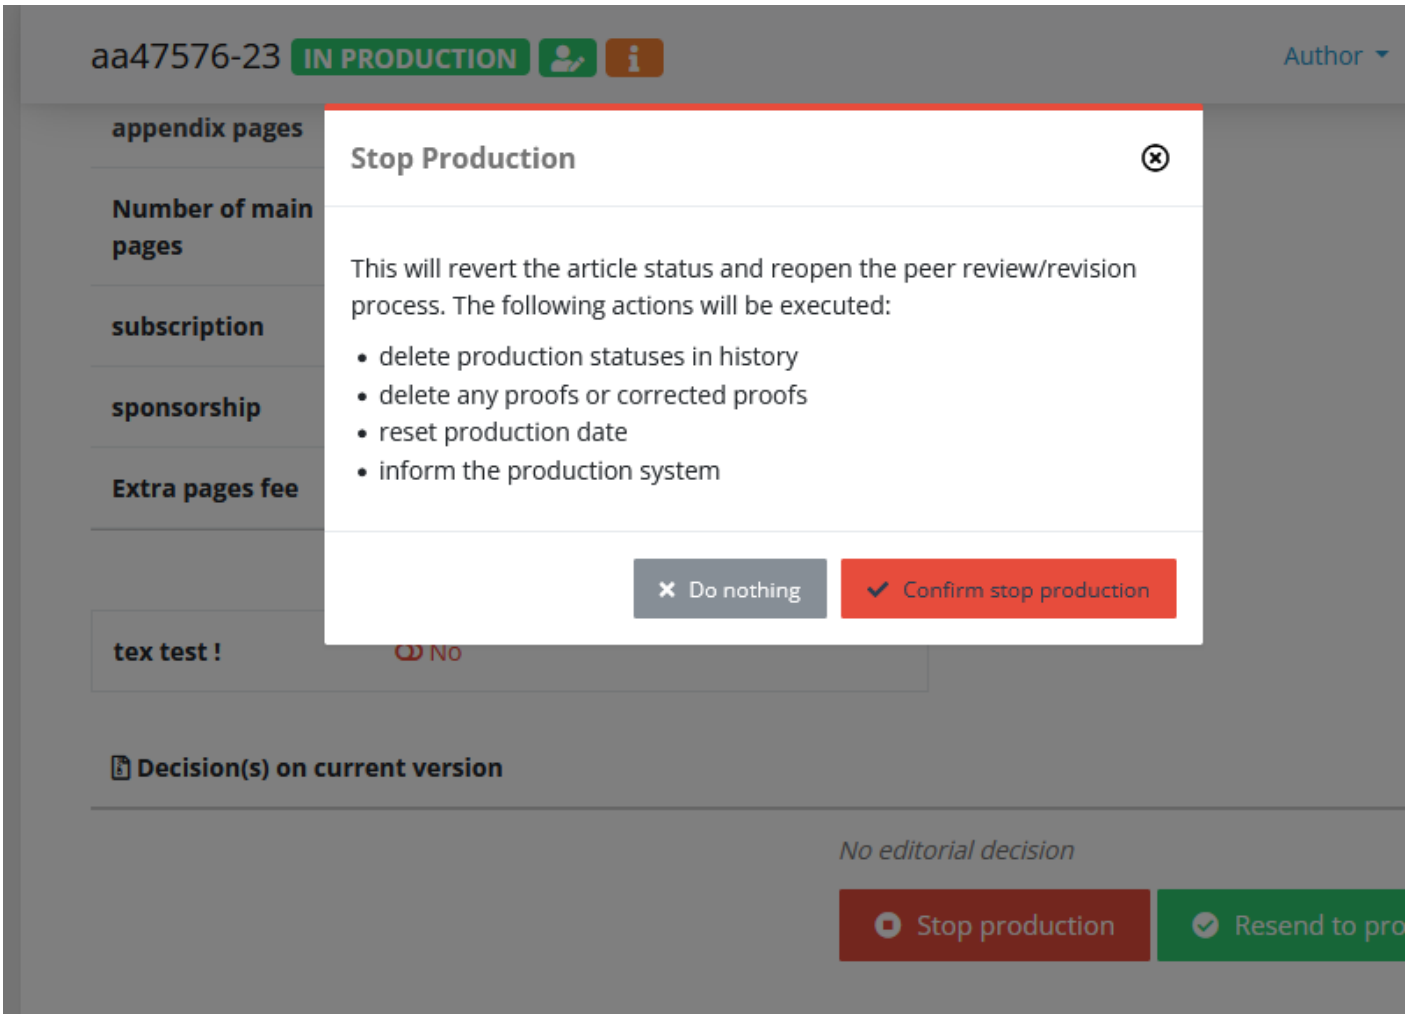

Referee invitation

The referee invitation now benefits from a revamped interface and does not redirect to another page. When inviting a referee, the editor now stays on the article page, which is updated automatically when necessary.

Stop the production of an article

On accepted articles, a new action is now available to cancel the production. The "Stop production" will allow you to reopen the peer review. NB To prevent questions related to status history, any proofs and production status stored in Nestor will be deleted.
